FINAL EXPENSE OR EQUITY PROTECTION
SICK OR ELDERLY CLIENT

*Introduction: Act confused
"Hi [CLIENT'S NAME], this is [YOUR FULL NAME].
I'm calling about the mortgage protection request you sent in to us online on [DATE] naming [BENEFICIARY] as your beneficiary does that ring a bell ?

Who is your beneficiary?

Ok Great.

So I'm the specialist that's been assigned to show you your options and how this works.

What we're going to do here is have a quick conversation to figure out what your needs and situation is.

That way we can structure the mortgage protection to fit that need, then see where we can possibly get you approved… because getting approved is the hardest part.

*SHOULDER DROPPING: Sample Questions
Have you talked to them about what they'll do with the home when you die?
Why do you think you need mortgage protection?
Have you looked at mortgage protection before?
Why look at protection now.. are you sickly ?

*EMAIL VERIFICATION: Don't Skip

*Equity Calculation:

Value of Home — Loan Balance = Rough Estimate of Equity
500k — 250k = $250k of Equity

If you could list the home today, how much could you list it for?
How much is left to pay off the house? <Do the math for them>

Okay, so you have around ____ of Equity in the home… is that about right?
Okay, that's quite a bit of equity..definitely worth protecting…

*Mortgage Protection Explanation:
Well [CLIENT] now I'll give you a bit of an explanation of where mortgage protection comes from…Before 2008 with the mortgage collapse, the lenders would go through and offer mortgage protection. Do you remember the market taking that hit in 2008? After the crash, they completely offering mortgage protection. Because it doesn't protect the bank so why would they offer it, right? As sad as it is, when you die they will do everything in their power to take the home and equity….and that's what were looking to protect right?

Our goal here today is to make sure that you and [BENEFICIARY] don't lose. So when you pass away, the home and equity is protected with this policy….make sense ?

*Setting Expectations:
Mortgage protection is pretty simple, it isn't something you can just sign up for at anytime, it is something you do actually have to qualify for. And that's based on your age and health.

Now there will not be a blood and urine test. Were not sending a nurse out to the house or anything. Now the carriers just run your social through the Medical Information Bureau (MIB) which has all of your health history. Not a lot of people get approved but…From there they will give me an answer on you within 1-3 business days. Does that make sense?

WHY BUILDER QUESTION #1
"What I'm gunna do, [CLIENT], I'll ask you a couple questions to see what makes the most sense for you. Then once we find something that makes sense and takes care of your family the way you need it to, I'm gunna help you submit a request for coverage to make sure we can get you approved today. Make sense?

Okay who else do we need on the phone to go over the options and make decision?

Alright, I apologize for that wait…thank you for your patience.

Asking permission to dig deeper on the WHY
Ok, [CLIENT] I wouldn't be doing my job right if I didn't ask you these next set of questions. I wanna make sure I have a clear picture of what your situation looks like, so I can structure a policy that's going to protect you properly through every season of life.

WHY BUILDER QUESTION #2
"So if we can find something that fits the budget and takes care of <restate the problem> would you say that's kind of exactly what you're looking for?"

WHY BUILDER QUESTION #3
"I think I see why you're wanting to look into this... it sounds like <insert emotional why> and you wanna make sure that <insert* emotional why>, if there's anything YOU can do about it. Is that right?"

FINAL EXPENSE OR EQUITY PROTECTION SICK OR ELDERLY CLIENT

KILLING THE TERM:

So there are 2 things to know about Mortgage Protection. The first is, to have a coverage that pays off that full* amount* of the home, actually isn't necessary or as productive as you would think. I'll beee* 100% frank with you pause I meet with a lot of people in your age bracket each week,* and NO one ever does that* and for quite a few reasons. The biggest reason being, is that coverage is what we call* a TERM* policy. I'm not sure if you're familiar with what a term is, but It's only in place for a certain period of time, like a president's term. If you were in your 20's that'd be one thing, but at your age, it never makes sense to have coverage in place only for a couple of years…because once the policy is over… then we have nothing. And then we'll have to reapply at our new age and health.* Does that make sense?

EQUITY PROTECTION:

The second thing to know is that your lender doesn't care about the [LOAN BALANCE] that you owe, they're more concerned about the next monthly mortgage payment. As long as someone is paying that mortgage payment they have no questions to ask, but in the event that you pass away and [BENEFICIARY] can't make monthly mortgage payments, there's no grace period. That's when the lender is more than happy to foreclose. So I think what's important here is we need to make sure that when you do pass away, that [BENEFICIARY] has either six months, a year, or year and a half of mortgage payments that are covered, so they're not losing the home in the immediate aftermath of you passing away. If they decide to sell the property, they'll have plenty of time to do that without worrying about trying to pay the mortgage while putting it on the market; OR, if they do decide to keep it, they could refinance using the equity you have in the home, which may even lower her monthly payments to enable they to stay there long term. That is* 100% what I'd recommend* and what most people typically go with. Would you agree with that as weeeellll?* Or, What are your thoughts?

The point of this is to get as much coverage as possible to pay out to [BENEFICIARY] whenever you die or get a terminal illness.

I WANT THE WHOLE MORTGAGE: Sure! Now remember…the whole home amount is that term product that we talked about. It's the most expensive product, and you'll be paying into something that will quickly end in a few years. Unless you have a life expectancy of a few years, I would highly recommend that we look at this policy. Just because* your [BENEFICIARY] is guaranteed to get a check - It's just simply the date and time. Does that make sense?

Once they AGREE with you: Okay, perfect.* I assumed so, but just wanted to make sure we were on the same page. Alright...If you will* grab that pen and paper,* I'm just gonna have you write down the* different* ways* the policy pays out. Let me know whenever you're ready.

Okay so because of your age and health history combined, it puts you in a high-risk category that honestly scares off a lot of insurance companies.

However, fortunately, since you're not considered to be in the highest risk tier, there's an A-rated company called Corebridge (AIG) who just sent me their approval and said they are willing to take you as a risk.

Since they're willing to accept you, they do ask for something in return. They just wanna make sure you're not goin' anywhere within the next two years. Which…you don't have a 2-year life expectancy or anything, do you?
(Wait for response)

Okay, good - I didn't think so. So, in the first two years, if you were to pass away by accident, (beneficiary name) will get that full payout. If you pass away naturally, (beneficiary name) will get everything you paid into the policy, plus 10% interest. The day after that proving period is up, they'll add two more payouts for chronic and terminal illness as well. Which means they'll pay you up to 50% of your policy while you're living if either of those two things happen. It's just a solid policy specially made for seniors. Does that make sense?

If married:
And again it goes directly to you to your spouse to make up for your lost income when you die, because it can take the state anywhere from 3 to 6 months… to do all the paperwork* and THEN for your spouse to actually start receiving the survivorship. So that's why the policy is there to help everything transition so there's no money problems. Does that make sense?

Healthy persons window

Now, [CLIENT] you're in what's called the "Healthy Person's Window". Have you heard of that before? As we know with windows, they do 2 things, they OPEN and CLOSE. Most people feel like the most important part of mortgage protection is getting SOME coverage in place before the window on their health closes, and/or the rates increase. Would you agree on that as well?

GIVE QUOTES

Best Coverage (Largest) GIVE FIRST
Better Coverage (Middle)
Good Coverage (Smallest)

Which option makes the most sense for you, is financially comfortable, and gives you the peace of mind you need?

Great, most people choose that one.

So, before we move further… this application will take 5 minutes to submit. I want to make sure you have my number saved because you will now be one of my People and we'll be speaking so I want to make sure when I call my number comes up.

Expect a call from me in 1-3 business days once we get that update of if you are approved or declined….is there a good time to reach out to you?

[PLACE THEM IN YOUR SCHEDULE]

Ok great, if you don't answer I'll shoot you a text and just call me when you're free. Hopefully we will get approved and then they mail the policy to you in the mail within 14-21 business days. Very important you write my name and number on the packet. I'm also going to ask that you give [BENEFICIARY] my info so that they know about all of this. My office or my team and we will handle everything for them with the insurance carriers in a very difficult time. Sound good to you ?

Great…now a couple things the insurance carrier will require:

TALK SLOW

1. I need you to grab your valid ID…I need to ID-Check you and make sure I've been talking to you [CLIENT] the whole time and no one is trying to get insurance in your name.
2. Grab whatever checking and routing number* you want associated with this every month,* have that ready to read off to me at the end.
3. And then, do you have a primary care doctor that you see?
4. What is the name of your doctor and what city do you see them in?
5. Okay. When you have your valid ID infant of you, let me know. I do have to ID check you.

6. Read me the driver's license number off the front.
7. Okay is this a valid license in [STATE]
    - Okay Verify your date of birth.
    - And your middle initial.
    - And your Full Social.
    - And the state or country that you were born in.
    - The phone number we want is_____, right?
    - The email we want is_____, right?
    - Okay, and who are you using for banking?
    - Okay the routing number for them when you have it.
    - Okay the account number for them when you have it.

<PROCESS APPLICATION>
<PROCESS POLICY PAL or Wrap up Text>

Okay, now that we've submitted that, it typically takes 1–3 days for approval. And if approved, the payment is processed 1–3 days after that. Now if you see that payment come out before we have our call, jump up and down, give yourself a high 5 cuz that means you are approved! That's awesome! We'll do our Approval call then about 1–2 weeks later, you'll receive the big policy packet in the mail like we discussed.

Hey [CLIENT], before we wrap up, I want to make sure you're fully protected moving forward. I'm officially your agent for life, so anything you ever need, whether it's updating your coverage, making changes, or just asking questions, call me. Now one important thing…there are A LOT of scams out there right now, especially around life insurance and mortgage protection. No one from our office will ever call you about your policy unless I personally let you know ahead of time. NOT EVEN THE INSURANCE COMPANY. If anyone reaches out and it's not me, hang up and call me directly. Think of me as your security, I'm here to protect you and your information. Sound good?

You are all set here until our Approval call. Did you have any questions for me? Then you are good to go. You have my contact here if you need anything, but you should be all set. I'll talk with you in a couple of days.
