Aged MAIL—HEALTHY
IUL, ROP and Term

IMPORTANT NOTE: When sitting with a couple, it is crucial to identify where the income is coming from and what will happen to that income when they pass away.

INTRO
Hi <client>, this is <agent>. I'm just giving you a call here for the mortgage protection appointment that we have. Give me just a second to pull you all up here… pause

Okay, and do you have your spouse or significant other with you as well ? Okay just let me know once you all are seated and you have me on speaker, and I'll get started with you. <WAIT UNTIL THEY'RE ON AND SAY HELLO>

OK, I have that security code I gave you, it's _____.

We are at * <address> is that right?

Okay,* so again,* my name is <agent>.* My job gets a little bit repetitive,* but it's very important * - it's just to walk you through the mortgage and loan protection process and the ways it pays out to you as homeowner…Now* are you familiar with the mortgage process at all,* ooor is this kinda your first time goin' through everything?

<no matter what response, keep going>

Got it, So things are done a lot differently than how they used to be done. <Lender> used to bake in the mortgage and loan protection with the home,* now it's always done separately* and for several different reasons.* But the biggest reason now,* is so that you are the beneficiary of these funds,* and not <lender>.*
So <lender>,* doesn't get to touch* or receive* any of the funds that are paid out to you from the policy, okay? Wait for response So, anytime that you purchase a home,* refinance,* or take out a home equity line of credit,* you have three* crucial coverages to put into place.* And by this point in the process you should be pretty familiar with them but I'm just gunna review them with you as well…

1. Homeowners insurance - we all know what that is * - that just covers the physical* structure of the home* from flood,* fire,* anything like that, the homeowners insurance takes care of.

2. Secondly, <lender> has several coverages in place to make sure that they get their investment back, an example of that would be like a PMI coverage, but those do not pay out to you as the homeowner…

3. Now the Mortgage and Loan protection does— it pays out directly to you as the homeowner so that both parties* are properly protected here in the process.

So my job here is pretty simple—it's to risk asses you and verify that I am speaking with you as the homeowner the entire time. I'm going to ask you a couple of health questions, a couple of financial questions, then go over the different ways that the policy pays out. Once we do that, you will be able to customize this and choose your level of coverage and we'll submit your request for approval. It sounds like a lot, it's actually a pretty quick, process that they have us get through with you, okay ?

DO FULL FINANCIAL INVENTORY

Okay,* bear with me*...I'm gonna put you on a brief hold while I type out a couple things here on my end. If you will,* just grab a pen and a clean piece of paper. I just have to have you write a couple things down…

HOLD and run Quotes or Pass Off to Processing Manager

<Make sure you check in with your clients every 3 minutes.>

Good Money	Bad Money
Opt 1: Whole Home + Income	Opt 1: The Whole Home
Opt 2: Just the Home	Opt 2: 75% of the Home

Alright, I apologize for that wait…thank you for your patience.
So this next part is pretty* crucial,* so please,* if there's something you want me to review,* just let me know. But overall,* they ask us to simplify things and break them down, so you shouldn't have too many questions if I do my job well.pause

The point of is to get as much coverage as possible to pay out to you all whenever you die or get sick.

So in covering you* for the home,* it covers you in a few* different areas.The first is the obvious, if you'll please write down…death as in passed away pause So when you die pause they send over a lump sum check to pay off the home. That lump sum check will be sent directly to <beneficiary name>, and <lender> cannot touch it*. They can use it on funeral expenses, the fees that come with transferring the home… basically however you and <beneficiary> decide that it be going to be used for. Any questions about just that death benefit payout?

(IF Under 40 years old)
Okay <client>, in your age bracket, most people aren't too worried about passing away, right? Pause We do get claims for death— however the policy will most likely be paying out from one of the next 4 categories we'll go through next okay..

Number 2,* if you'll please write it down*…is critical* illness. pause
Okay with Critical Illness,… that's any major* medical* diagnosis you can receive while you're living. That's things like cancer,* heart attack,* stroke,* brain tumor,* organ failure,* and several others.*…<keep it moving> …Does that make sense? Any questions about that? It's pretty cut and dry.

The third and fourth one kind of go together…If you'll please write down, chronic* illness pause and disability. pause

So that's if for some reason,* you're not able to do two,* out of your five daily living functions* for 90 days or more. You can't bathe yourself,* put your clothes on,* feed yourself,* use the restroom,* or mobility*…and whether it is due to an illness or an accident…either way, they will pay out. Any questions about just those two?

Okay, and then lastly, if you'll write down*… terminal illness.
That one's pretty self explanatory. That's if you're going to pass away within the next 12 months or less*…At that point, they're not going to wait for you to pass away since they already know it's coming, they're just going to send funds over for that.

Any questions over those payouts? Pretty straightforward.

<If it's an ROP, read the next portion. If not, SKIP.>

Another feature many homeowners like is the return-of-premium. So if the coverage remains in place for the full term and you don't die or have the chronic, critical, or terminal illness situations we went over—the company refunds 100% of the premiums that you paid as an incentive for you to stay healthy.
That means the policy protects you the whole time. And if it never has to pay out in one of the 5 ways, you get the money back near the end of the term. Some homeowners choose to use that money to pay off the home a little bit sooner or for other financial goals. <wait a couple seconds for that to sink in>

<If it's an IUL, read the next portion. If not, SKIP.>

Once the mortgage is paid off, the policy will continue protecting you in the 5 ways we went over. Since you own the policy—not the bank—it acts like life insurance for you and your beneficiary. Because the coverage is tied to you rather than the house, it can also stay with you if you move from one home to another. <wait a couple seconds for that to sink in>
Do you have any questions on anything we just talked about so far? It's pretty simple.

Healthy persons window

Now, <Client> you're in what's called the "Healthy Person's Window". Have you heard of that before? As we know with windows, they do 2 things, they OPEN and CLOSE. Most people feel like the most important part of mortgage protection is getting SOME coverage in place before the window on their health closes, and/or the rates increase. Would you agree on that as well?

GIVE QUOTES

Best Coverage (Largest) GIVE FIRST
Better Coverage (Middle)
Good Coverage (Smallest)

Which option makes the most sense for you, is financially comfortable, and gives you the peace of mind you need ?

Great, most people choose that one.

So, before we move further… this application will take 5 minutes to submit. I want to make sure you have my number saved because you will now be one of my People and we will be speaking so I want to make sure when I call my number comes up.

You're going to expect a call from me in 1-3 business days once we get that update if you are approved or not….is there a good time to reach out to you.....Ok great, if you don't answer I'll shoot you a text and then you just call me when you're free.

Hopefully we will get approved and then they mail the policy to you in the mail within 2 weeks. Very important you write my name and number on the packet. I'm also going to ask that you give [Beneficiary] my info so that [Beneficiary] knows who I am so if something does happen to you they can call me, my office or my team and we will handle everything for them with the insurance carriers in a very difficult time for them. Sound good to you ?

Great…now a couple things the insurance carrier will require:

TALK SLOW

1. I need you to grab your valid ID…I need to ID-Check you and make sure I've been talking to you [CLIENT] the whole time and no one is trying to get insurance in your name.
2. Grab whatever checking and routing number* you want associated with this every month,* have that ready to read off to me at the end.
3. And then, do you have a primary care doctor that you see?
4. What is the name of your doctor and what city do you see them in?
5. Okay. When you have your valid ID infant of you, let me know. I do have to ID check you.6. Read me the driver's license number off the front.
7. Okay is this a valid license in [STATE]
    - Okay Verify your date of birth.
    - And your middle initial.
    - And your Full Social.
    - And the state or country that you were born in.
    - The phone number we want is_____, right?
    - The email we want is_____, right?
    - Okay, and who are you using for banking?
    - Okay the routing number for them when you have it.
    - Okay the account number for them when you have it.

<PROCESS APPLICATION>
<PROCESS POLICY PAL

Okay, now that we've submitted that, it typically takes 1–3 days for approval. And if approved, the payment is processed 1–3 days after that. Now if you see that payment come out before we have our call, jump up and down, give yourself a high 5 cuz that means you are approved! That's awesome! We'll do our Approval call then about 1–2 weeks later, you'll receive the big policy packet in the mail like we discussed.

Hey <Client>, before we wrap up, I want to make sure you're fully protected moving forward. I'm officially your agent for life, so anything you ever need, whether it's updating your coverage, making changes, or just asking questions, call me. Now one important thing…there are A LOT of scams out there right now, especially around life insurance and mortgage protection. No one from our office will ever call you about your policy unless I personally let you know ahead of time. If anyone reaches out regarding your policy, or saying it needs updating, and it's not me calling, hang up and call me directly. Think of me as your security, I'm here to protect you and your information. Sound good?

You are all set here until our Approval call. Did you have any questions for me? Then you are good to go. You have my contact here if you need anything, but you should be all set. I'll talk with you in a couple of days.